Babes in the Wood.

The following touching story is told by the Melbourne (Australia) correspondent of the London Times:

"Some weeks back, at the station of Mr. Dugald Smith, at Horsham, two boys and a girl, aged respectively the eldest boy nine, the girl seven and the youngest boy five, the children of a carpenter named Duff, wandered by themselve into the bush and were lost. They had been sent out by their mother, as they had often gone out on the same errand before, to gather broom, and on not returning before dark the parents became alarmed, and a search commenced. The father assisted by friends and neighbors in large numbers scoured the country in every direction for nights and days in vain. At length, in despair, the assistance of some aboriginal blacks was obtained, these people possessing an almost bloodhound instinct in following up the very faintest tracks. The blacks soon come upon the traces of the little wanderers, expatiating, as these trackers always do, at every bent twig, or flattened tuft of grass, on the apparent actings of the objects of their search. 'Here, little one tired; sit down. Big one kneel down, carry him along. Here travel all night; dark; not see that bush; her fall on him.' Further on, and more observations. 'Here little one tired again; big one kneel down; no able to rise, fall flat on his face.' The accuracy of these readings of the blacks was afterwards curiously corroborated by the children themselves.

"On the eighth day after they were lost, and long after the extinction of the faintest hope of their ever being again seen alive, the searching party came on them. They are described as having been found all in a row on a clump of broom among some trees, the youngest in the middle, carefully wrapped in his sister's frock. They appeared to be in a deep and not unpleasant sleep. On being awoke the eldest tried to sit up, but fell back. His face was so emaciated that his lips would not cover his teeth, and he could only just feebly groan 'Father.' The youngest who had suffered least, woke up as from a dream, childlike demanding, 'Father, why didn't you come for us sooner? we were crying for you.' The sister who was almost quite gone, when lifted up could only murmur, 'Cold, cold.' No wonder, poor little creature had stripped herself of her frock, as the elder boy said, 'to cover Frank, for he was crying with the cold.'

"The children have all since done well, and are rapidly recovering. They were without food, and by their own account, had only one drink of water during the whole time they were out, and this was from the Friday of one week until the Saturday of the next week, in all, nine days and eight nights."

A Moorish Martyr.

Nearly three hundred years ago a Moorish Christian named Geronymo was a captive in Algiers. His captors were engaged in building a mud fort for the defense of the city; and after many efforts to induce him to abjure his faith, they threatened to bury him in the embankment if he refused to comply. Chained and guarded he was brought to the wall of the unfinished fort, when the Pasha accosted him thus:

"Hallo, dog! wherefore wilt thou not be a Mussulman?"

"I will not be one for anything," replied the martyr of God. "I am a Christian, and I shall be one still."

"Ah well," said the Pasha, "if thou wilt not become a Mussulman—look there!" and he showed him the mould for the block of mud. "Look there—I will bury thee alive there!"

"Do what thou will," returned the holy man, with admirable courage, "I am prepared for all things. The aspect of death will not make me abandon the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Enraged at his firmness, the pasha fulfilled his threat; Geronymo was buried alive beneath the earth of which the bank was built. The Christian slaves who witnessed the atrocity were unable to prevent it or remove the body after death—but they made a record of the fact which was handed down to the time when the French were masters of Algiers and the old time earthworks were demolished. On the 27th of December, 1833 the soldiers employed in the demolition of the rampart facing the road, perceived upon the removal of the rubbish produced by the explosion of the mines extending lengthways within a block of mud, an excavation inclosing a human skeleton, which was visible from the optical region to the articulation of the tibia with the femur. In short, excepting the upper portion of the head and the lower portion of the legs, the whole body was quite visible. Believing the remains to be those of the martyr Geronymo, the officer in charge removed the bones and took a cast in plaster of the cavity in which they were found. The result was a perfect model of a Moorish face and figure, with the eyes closed and a strange pathos in the expression, leaving no doubt that it was a reproduction of the features of the martyred Moor. Photographs from this cast are now to be seen in Paris.

Muscular Power of the Tiger.

A bullock was killed by a tiger near our encampment, on the banks of the Tumboordra, in a field surrounded by a hedge of prickly pear, about six feet in height. The carcass of the bullock, still warm, was observed by one of our peons, who brought intelligence to the tents. Within two hours we were at the spot, and to our astonishment, found the carcass of the bullock partly devoured, on the outside of the fence, although the animal had evidently been killed within it. Not a twig in the hedge was broken, and the only clue to account for this apparent mystery were the deeply impressed footprints of a large tiger, on either side of the hedge, from which it appeared that he must have sprung over the barrier with his prey in his jaws. The confirmation afforded, by palpable traces, to the peon's assertion, that the bullock had been killed within the enclosure, and the impossibility of the carcass having been removed in any other way, alone convinced us of the fact; otherwise we could not have believed that an animal weighin under six hundred pounds could have exerted such prodigious strength. Any one who has examined the anatomical strength of the tiger, however, would readily believe the extraordinary power he is capable of exerting. His foreleg is the most perfect piece of mechanism that can be conceived, supported by a bone as hard and as compact as ivory, and displaying a mass of sinew and muscle, to be found only in this most formidable weapon of this most agile and destructive of all animals. His jaws, neck, and shoulders, evince corresponding strength, and with reference to the foregoing anecdote, it must be borne in mind, that the cattle of India, (with the exception of buffaloes and a particular breed used for drawing carriages,) are of small size, and do not usually exceed the tiger himself in weight.—[Campbell's Indian Journal.

Poverty in France.

It is computed that there are a million beggars and vagabonds in France. In a recent work Hugo says there are thirteen hundred thousand peasants' cottages that have but three openings; eighteen hundred and seventeen thousand that have two—the door and one window; and, finally, three hundred and forty-six thousand cabins with only one opening—the door. And this in consequence of what is called the excise upon doors and windows. In these poor families, among the aged women and the little children, dwelling in these huts, how abundant is fever and disease! In Asere, in Var, and in the Upper and Lower Alps, the peasants have not even wheelbarrows: they carry the manure on their backs; they have no candles, but burn pine knots and bits of rope soaked in pitch. And the same is the case all through the upper part of Dauphine. They make bread but once in six months and bake it with the refuse of the fields. In the winter it becomes so hard that they cut it with an axe, and soak it for twenty-four hours before they can eat it.

A Postical Idea Realized.

ENOCH ARDEN IN REAL LIFE.

A correspondent of the London Morning Post writes from Brussels as follows:

"A circumstance has just occurred here which in some points resembles the events out of which the Poet Laureate has made so much in 'Enoch Arden.' About twenty years ago a blacksmith was condemned to an imprisonment of seven months for an assault of which he had been found guilty; and on the expiration of his term of punishment, being unwilling to return to his former employment, he enlisted in the Dutch army, and shortly afterwards proceeded to the colonies of Holland, in the East Indies, leaving a wife and young daughter behind him. Five years afterwards a comrade who had served in the same company arrived here and told the wife that her husband had been killed with a poisoned arrow by one of the natives. The comrade and the wife, having soon come to an understanding, were married and lived happily together for many years. Their happiness, however, was interrupted a few days ago, when an individual with white locks made his appearance in the family circle, which included seven children. This was the blacksmith, who had been supposed to be long dead, who, seeing how matters stood with his wife and friend, made the best he could of the change, and, after having deposited three thousand florins for the use of the daughter he had left behind—who is now twenty-two years of age—he took his departure for London in the steamer Moselle, and has since, doubtless, arrived at his destination, though nobody here seems to have been made acquainted with his future plans or intentions."

The Gold Fields of Australia.

The Melbourne correspondent of the London Times writes:

"Our gold fields are now attracting more general attention than they have received for some years past. So many of the 'deep sinking companies' have lately been beyond the expectations even of their sanguine projectors, that a 'deep sinking' mania has for a time seized the public mind, more especially in Melbourne and Ballarat. It is not very surprising when we encounter such facts as the following:

In Ballarat, at the present time there are eighty-four companies, with a paid up capital of £775,000. Upwards of a third of these are paying dividends, and most of the others are sanguine of 'hitting the gutter'—the name given to the operation of coming upon some subterranean auriferous river bed—as feat occurring sometimes a hundred feet below the surface, sometimes four hundred feet. Thirteen of these Ballarat companies have already paid in dividends £1,140,000, some of them, of course, yielding a much higher rate than others, but most of them high. The Daylesford deep leads are equally rich, and the Golden Rivers Company have struck gold at their claim at Meredith, a town about midway between Ballarat and Geelong, an interesting fact which induces many experienced miners to belive that gold will yet be traced down to the shores of Port Philip Bay. In the Gippsland direction also many new reefs have lately been discovered between the now celebrated Woods and the Omeo, a wild and hitherto unexplored solitude, to which there are already symptoms of a great rush this spring."

Under Lake Michigan.—The city of Chicago is tunnelling under Lake Michigan in order to secure a supply of fresh water. A correspondent of the Boston Commonwealth thus describes the tunnel now in process of construction:

I put on an oilskin coat this afternoon, got into a sort of tub, held on very hard to an iron bar, (though I knew it would not be of the slightest use to do so,) was let down into our great lake tunnel and went in under Lake Michigan as far as it is done, that is about six hundred feet. This tunnel is to burrow under the lake two miles, out to where the water is deep, clear and cool in all weathers. There a vast structure of wood and iron, weighted with stone, and with three pairs of flood gates to let in the water, is to be put down to meet the tunnel; and in this way we are to be supplied with pure water when the work is done. So far the work is entirely successful. It is driven through a vast bed of strong, compact blue clay, through which not one drop of water has come, though they struck fire once and came near being burnt up. The clay is cut with a tool like a carpenter's adze, and the arch (two bricks thick, and each brick inspected three times) is then laid as the clay is cut out. It is a noble piece of work so far, and has brought out some curious hints of old times; as, for instance, great rolled boulders are found buried under sixty-five feet of clay, and stones with the unmistakable glacier groove in them at the same depth, and stones that yield petroleum, and stones of which no other specimens have been found between the Alleghanies and the Rocky Mountains; and iron pyrites with a goldy fascination about them, and gypsum and curious hints of all sorts, for those that love to read "sermons in stones."

Gems from a Single Copperhead.

It is said there is a jewel in a toad's head, and surely a more unpropitious looking locality to search for such treasures can scarcely be imagined. Is it remarkable then, in view of such a fact as this, that gems should glisten in the copperhead? However this question may be answered, we present a whole cluster gathered from a single copperhead newspaper, published in a neighboring State, and edited by an individual exported from the loyal county of York, in this State. Here is

GEM No. 1.—"Governor Brown of Georgia, of whom something had been hoped in the work of restoration, is driven by the re-election of Lincoln, and the desolation of his State, to exert all his power against us. The men who have driven a brave and proud people to such a strait have much to answer for."

Who will say that this not a gem,—a regular diamond of the first water? But here is another:

GEM No. 2—"A day or two since, Mr. Jos. Parker of England, arrived at Washington, and addressed a note to Mr. Seward, saying that he was the bearer of a mammoth memorial from the people of England, Scotland and Ireland, containing three hundred and fifty thousand signatures, praying for the re-establishment of peace in this country. Mr. Seward replied that the memorial would not be received, and that no interview with the President would be granted. Why not? George Thompson was received in this country with "distinguished consideration." We see no reason why a peace commissioner from abroad should not command as much respect as an English war-hawk."

The lustre of this gem is seen at two different angles.

1. Mr. Thompson asked for no official interview with the President. The only "consideration" accorded to him was that usually shown by courtesy to distinguished individuals, citizens and strangers. Mr. Parker, without credentials, presented himself as an ambassador, on official business, and he was—treated according to his folly and deserts, of course.

2. Mr. Thompson visited Washington as a friend of our Government, in favor of its authority and our continued national unity and integrity. Mr. Parker came as a foe, to ask the Government to commit suicide, to destroy its own Union, and to humiliate itself before the rebels in arms; and the New Hampshire copperhead can see no reason why he should be treated differently from the other man.—Well, we don't suppose he can distinguish the difference between the two cases.

GEM No. 3.—"Upon reading the full particulars in the World issued this morning, of the attempt to burn New York] we at once declared our conviction to be that the whole affair was a sham. If the destruction of the city had been intended, the fires would not have been set as early as nine o'clock, when all the agencies by which they might be discovered and distinguished were in full action. The fact that none of them succeeded shows that none of them were intended to succeed. * * * It is known that there is a secret political organization in every village throughout the North, called the Loyal League. We believe this conspiracy originated there; and that its purpose was, not to burn New York, but to make people believe that somebody else attempted to do it."

This will do. Too many such gems all at once, would create so brilliant a cluster that it would need to be viewed through smoked glass. The New Hampshire editor should be awarded a diploma for his perception. The Dutch Mayor of New York, who didn't see it in that light, would probably consent to have the cost of an appropriate "sheep-skin" paid out of that $5,000 reward that he offered for the detection of the incendiaries, provided they should be discovered by the police and the evidence of their guilt be brought out before a civil court and not before a court martial! If detected by one of his tools and convicted before the redoubtable Judge McCunn—whom McClellan had degraded from his command—their guilt would be proof of damning criminality; but if detected by one of Gen. Dix's officers, and proved guilty ten thousand times over before a military court, they would remain saints of the first water, and should be released with full and free permission to distribute their phosphorus and fire ad libitum. This is Gunther justice!

Lightning becoming Sentimental.

The agents of the Associated Press continue to send over the lines a vast amount of balderdash, for which the publishers have to pay, and which the people have to accept in lieu of facts, or, what is next best to facts, nothing, which is always infinitely preferable to mere wash. For example, a few nights since the Louisville dispatch contained this:

"Our troops are brave and Gen. Thomas is an able commander."

The people must be immensely stupid as well as verdant, if they need to be told by telegraph all the way from Kentucky, of either of these facts; and the "Association" must have felt that they were paying dear for the whistle, when their expensive arrangement was prostituted to the transmission of statements which have been repeated for the hundredth time by every penny-a-liner in the army and out of it. Here is another sample:

"Gen. Thomas has altered his plans, and will either capture or annihilate the rebel army."

Refering to this the Evening Post asks what Gen. Thomas intended to do with the rebel army before he changed his plans. "The rebel general," continues the dispatch, "is pressing blindly forward." Highfalutin. But suppose it were a fact, how did the operator or the agent know it? How did he know that the rebel commander, like a turkey struck upon the head, was confused, and did not know what he was about or where he was going? Again, he says:

"We will not tremble for the result, but will feel strong and hopeful for the cause, and confidently look for victory to perch upon our banners."

Pleasant intelligence, but expensive when sent all the way from Kentucky by lightning.

When the victory "perches" the press will regard no expense heavy that enables them to communicate the joyful fact, but it is scarcely worth so much to know what somebody south of the Ohio river is confidently looking for. The sentimental agent adds, as the finishing touch to his dispatch:

"We predict that the rebel arms will meet with a terrible disaster."

Upon this the Evening Post—one of the members of the Associated Press—says:

Just here we desire to say a word. To predict is not the business of a telegrapher; nor can it answer any good purpose to send over the wires the predictions or speculations of others. His business is to give information; "facts not fancies," ought to be his motto; and news collectors may be sure that if they make shorter dispatches by rigid adherence to this theory, they will be the better liked by the public, which is not an ass, the general opinion of newspaper managers to the contrary notwithstanding.

SECRETARY FESSENDEN'S REPORT.—As a review of the financial condition of the country, Mr. Fessenden's report, we believe, is regarded with general satisfaction. It is clear, ingenuous, and comprehensive; and while it is less ambitious in proposing and defending theories than many reports in former years, it will compare favorably with any in its exposition of the burdens and resources on which we must count in carrying the government through its present period of trial.—[Boston Adv.

Letter from the Federal Capital.

Preparations for the Meeting of Congress—Senators—Representatives—Chief Justice Chase—Hopeful Indications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8, 1864.

To the Editor of the Press:

The capital is once more astir with the meeting of our States General. For some time past premonitions of the event have not been lacking. Now and then amid the crowds outpouring from the northern trains, or hurrying along the streets, or bustling about the hotels might be seen the face or figure of some stray congressman. People with lodgings to let, or board to furnish were busy in preparing their apartments for expected guests and in making up their minds what to ask, and what to take. Impatient place hunters anxiously perused the lists of arrivals in the morning papers their fingers itching for the button-hole of some expected patron. Employees about the capitol displayed unwonted punctuality at their posts, and surprising alacrity in the discharge of their duties. The carpets cleansed and rejuvenated and the desks glistening with varnish were restored to the halls of Congress; committee rooms and offices set to rights; lobbies and marble staircases put in a condition of scrupulous neatness; the huge, lumbering, wooden dome above which the real dome had been constructed, removed from the rotundr, revealing fully for the first time its majestic proportions; and here and there were to be seen workmen busied in patiently cleaning the dust and grim from the exterior of the magnificent edifice.—All was preparation and expectancy.

And now as the time approaches the signs multiply. Honorables mingle in every arrival, meet you on every street, pick their teeth in all the hotels, and stride with step a little lordly through the corridors of the capitol. The morning of the session arrives and with it comes a scene of unusual activity and bustle. At an early hour the galleries of both houses begin to fill with curious spectators. Though no such interest attaches to this meeting of Congress as is felt when an organization is to be effected, yet the scene is not without interest.

The floor of the Senate is populous. Amid numerous clerks of committees, officers of the Senate, "servi servorum populi" and non official personages in abundance, are many members of our republican peerage. Senator Clark now worthily acting as Vice President, Harris looking the judge in every aspect and motion, Chandler tall and straight, fiery and explosive as a rocket, Davis small and vehement, Morrill frank and hearty, Dixon the quiet gentleman, Foot the dignified, Anthony the affable, Van Winkle the rotund, Morgan the commanding, Sherman the handsome, Sumner the stately, Wiley the ministerial, Hendricks the courteous, Powell the off hand Reverdy Johnson the courtly, McDougall, the enivalrous, and many others join in mutual salutations, hand shakings and congratulations, quite irrespective of party distinctions.

In the House the scene is much the same only a little more noisy and confused, owing to the larger numbers who crowd the aisles, jostle between the desks and fill the areas of the spacious hall. Among them you may mark Speaker Colfax, with slight and almost boyish figure, and a face as pleasant and guileless as a child's—admired by most and beloved by all; Stevens, who in spite of years and infirmities seems likely to hold good for a long while yet his present place in the front ranks of our statesmen; Fenton, to whom the people have said, "Friend, go up higher;" Pendleton, to whom the people have said no such thing; Dawes, inwardly rejoicing, no doubt that he has not twenty contested election cases this session; Boutwell, "dark but comely," whose abilities have not failed to make him eminent even in this his first term; Windom, reckoned by some the Adonis o the House; Cox, thin featured, small, wiry, adroit; Jenckes, whose bankrupt bill elaborated by five months labor sill waits the decision of Congress; Rice of Massachusetts, with a brain full of monitors and double enders, Ashley, godfather of new-born territories; Winter Davis, whose well formed face and figure sort so well with his handsomely rounded periods; Kelly, still bearing upon one eyelid the mark of the machine shop where in his youth he went to school; Schenck, whose intense and fiery look contrasts strongly with the pleasant, open face of his fellow-soldier, Garfield; Pike, Perham and Blaine, well known all to the people of the northeast; Washburn, a scion from the Yankee grafted upon the Hoosier stalk and doing honor to both; Morrill, of Vermont, an able financier and true economist in the chaste lines of whose rather classical face you may fail to discover any outline of so rough an actuality as the Tax Bill; Odell, one of the few Democrats in whom the name does not belie the fact, nor can you well fail to notice one with tall, graceful figure, well displayed by a closely buttoned, neatly fitting, frock coat, with spacious forehead across which the hair, still dark and glossy, is smoothly brushed toward the right temple, with features so destitute of any gleam of a true and noble soul, so full of subtility, cool, consummate artifice and evil power, that you might take him to be Satan thinly disguised, were not his name Fernando Wood.

As we return to the Senate galleries the President pro tem ascends the platform, the gavel falls, and the second session of the thirty-eighth Congress is begun. Beyond the raising of a committee to wait on the President and inform him that the Senate is in session and ready to receive any communication he may wish to make, nothing is done on the first day. In the House, however, a committee, is raised to report a new bill for taxing whiskey.

The long suspense is at an end and SALMON P. CHASE, the poor Yankee boy, the humble Washington schoolmaster, the early, earnest, constant and able soldier of Freedom, the great statesman and financier is at last at the head of the Supreme Judicial Bench. The promptitude with which his nomination was confirmed by the Senate, without a reference, and the very warm and genial approbation with which it is received by the friends of the administration here, is but a fair indication, doubtless, of the manner in which so good an appointment will be accepted and endorsed by the people. When it is considered how admirably he is fitted by nature and education and high moral qualities, for the exalted post of duty to which he has been assigned for life, the importance of the appointment can hardly be over-estimated. We may reasonably hope that the evil days of the Supreme Court are over; and that henceforth the chief tribunal of the land will display the vigor and purity of the days of Jay and Marshall. From the Supreme Court which perpetrated that swindle upon our common humanity and insult against our common Creator, known as the "Dred Scott Decision," to the Supreme Court as now constituted; from Yancey to Chase, how great the distance! And now come freshly to mind the words of this same noble man uttered sometime during the dark days of '57, exhorting the people to have courage and patience, to labor and wait, assuring them that whatever the Supreme Court or any one else in authority might do or might not do, the people really fixed and settled everything—that false and corrupt decisions, iniquitous enactments and wicked decrees would all be swept away before the rising tide of Freedom. How in his own case has his prophecy been fulfilled!

T. S. P.

NEW PUBLISHING HOUSE.—Mr. Henry O. Houghton, of the famous Riverside Press, of Cambridge, and Mr. Melancthon M. Hurd, formerly of the well-known firm of Sheldon & Co., have associated under the firm of HURD & HOUGHTON, in the book publishing business. The new house is located at 401 Broadway, New York, where Mr. Hurd presides, while Mr. Houghton superintends the mechanical department at Cambridge.

The Natural History Society again.

To the Editor of the Press:

It was with much pain and some surprise that I read the recent articles in the daily papers announcing the embarrassments of this excellent society. I do not think that our citizens generally were prepared to learn the desperate condition of its financial affairs.—But it seems beyond question, from the appeals referred to, that unless immediate provision is made to clear away this burden of debt, the good name of Portland must suffer a deep and lasting disgrace. We are proud of our commercial enterprise and wealth, but it will not add to these honors if we attend, even as chief mourners, the funeral of our only scientific corporation.

Permit me to remind your readers that, in everything except pecuniary affairs, this institution has been a success. Its cases, emptied by the old fire, have been filled again by the untiring activity of its friends. Its publications, in beauty of dress, surpass all Scientific Proceedings of the country, and in matter are as valuable as any. It does not lack working members to add to both museum and researches hereafter. It has the fellowship and kind regard of the great associations of Science throughout the land, and its fall will bring grief to them that another light of public culture has gone out. If it does fall it will leave a good record of itself, however much of shame shall be felt in the community that suffered it to perish.

I would not write so strongly, if I did not regard this society as a great moral as well as enlightening power. By its whole public work and exhibition it offers, and not in vain, the study and admiration of the works of God as a recreation of the purest kind. One cannot enter its halls during the days when they are thronged, without feeling that while all its visitors are learning something, they are also being led to higher thoughts and sources of pleasure. Shall this good work be stopped in the fulness of its action? One single tax on the generosity of our wealth will save it. It will be, if placed on a free, fair level, self-sustaining to this extent, that it can draw from annual assessments what it needs for the prosecution of its important pursuits.

But there are so many calls and claims upon our purse! It is true that we are learning more than ever how to "give;" perhaps we are learning, too, that "it shall be given" also.

A city grows richer not poorer by fostering with an affectionate care the work of literary and scientific research. The glory of wealth is in its contributions to those things that make humanity wiser and happier.—Philanthropic relief of the immediate wants of our suffering and sick may take the lead, but it is followed at no great distance by the reverent and loving study of the works of the Creator, blessing while it instructs, and adding to the treasures of the heart while it reads the lessons on the open page of Nature.

B.

One of our Old Citizens.

Our aged and respected citizen, Mr. Joshua F. Weeks, completed his 71st year last Saturday. He is hale and hearty, active in business, being one of the oldest merchants in Portland, where he has been in business for half a century. He was born in the house on the corner of India and Fore streets, where he now resides, and which he has occupied from his birth up to the present period. He has had eleven children, all of whom have grown up to manhood and womanhood, seven of whom are now living, and all married but one. His grand children living number twenty-one, and on the occasion of his birthday, last Saturday, sixteen of them surrounded his table.

Mr. Weeks commenced business in the cooperage line, but subsequently formed a copartnership with Deacon Daniel Freeman and transacted the grocery business for a series of years in Market Square. Dissolving the copartnership, Mr. Weeks opened a store in "Clay Cove," where he has continued the business for nearly forty years, always enjoying the confidence not only of his friends and customers, but of the whole community. He is one of the few left of that generation—may he be spared to us many years.

BY TELEGRAPH

TO THE EVENING PAPERS.

From the South—The Disaffection Among the Rebels.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

The rebel Senate on the 6th defeated the resolution introduced on the recommendation of Jeff. Davis that certain officers, exempt under State laws, shall be forced into the rebel army.

Another resolution, fiercely denouncing the proposition to make soldiers of slaves and free them, has been introduced in the South Carolina Legislature.

A bill has passed the South Carolina House of Representatives to conscript all able-bodied males between sixteen and sixty years of age.

Richmond papers continue to assail Gov. Brown of Georgia. They intimate that he is preparing to fight Jeff. Davis in refusing to allow the full execution of the conscription law in his State.

Richmond papers of the 7th inst. are filled with expectations of an immediate attack on Richmond and explanations why they expect it. They are entirely confident that General Grant has been reinforced, by the 6th corps, and that he has other fresh troops.

Rebel News from Sherman—His Advance near Savannah on Tuesday—Wheeler Whipped by Kilpatrick.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

Rebel papers say that Sherman's advance on the 6th was reported skirmishing with the outposts of Savannah, and it was expected he would reach there by the 9th.

No new rebel movements had taken place in the vicinity of Grahamsville. Gen. Foster had fortified himself and maintained his position. The Charleston Mercury thinks he will remain there until Sherman reaches within striking distance of the coast.

Richmond papers give further particulars of Wheeler's fight with Kilpatrick, in which it appears that Wheeler was obliged to fall back, owing to Kilpatrick's superior numbers.

The rebel Gen. Anderson was wounded at Grahamsville, and he is censured for rashly throwing his troops against breastworks.

Every house except Mr. Griswold's, was destroyed in Griswoldville.

From Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 9.

The weather is bitter cold. There has nothing new occurred at the front to-day, save sharp musketry firing in front of the 4th corps. Several were wounded on both sides.

The gunboat fleet went down the river today. Nothing has been heard from them since they left, except that they engaged the rebels some thirty minutes. The water on the shoals is forty-four inches deep and falling.

Later—A heavy snow and hail storm has prevailed all day. The rebel line in front appears intact. There are no indications of an attack or of their retreating. The excitement here has nearly subsided. No apprehensions for the safety of the city need be felt.

From Grant's Army—Capture of an Important Position near Dutch Gap.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

The Herald's Army of the Potomac correspondent says: On Wednesday last, owing to the annoyance by rebels firing upon working parties at Dutch Gap Canal, portions of two colored regiments of infantry and a section of Martin's 5th Regular artillery under Gen. B. C. Ludlow, crossed to the north side of the James River and drove the rebels back and effected a lodgment at the upper terminus of the canal, where they entrenched themselves, thus protecting the laborers on the canal. The rebel batteries subsequently opened upon the position, but did no harm.

Successful Expedition from Vicksburg—Destruction of Railroads, Cotton, &c.

VICKSBURG, Dec. 4, via CAIRO, Dec. 9.

Gen. Dana, by a successful expedition from Vicksburg, destroyed the Mississippi Central Railroad for thirty miles above Big Black River crossing, including the long bridge at that place.

He found the enemy in force, but the work was thoroughly done. Our troops then returned to Vicksburg, with a loss of five killed and forty-one wounded and missing. He also destroyed 2500 bales of Confederate cotton and about $300,000 worth of other public property.

☞ A big cheese has been shipped from California for the use of the army. Its weight is 3,930 lbs. It was made from the milk of 600 cows, given at seven milkings, and is nearly six feet in diameter.

☞ On Wednesday night about 12 o'clock the house, barn and store of William Mansfield, in Winterport, were burned. All in the buildings saved except hay. Insured. The fire was supposed to be the work of an incendiary.—[Whig.

☞ Joseph Jewell, seaman, of brig Robin, lying at Frankfort, was drowned Wednesday evening. He jumped from a boat to catch the main chains, and fell short. A strong current swept him away. Aged 17. Belonged in Monroe.—[Whig.

☞ Dr. Gwin, ex-senator of California, has been made governor general of the State of Sonora by the Emperor Maximilian, through the influence of Napoleon. Gwin is a rebel, and mischief may be meant by his Mexican appointment.

☞ We are writing with a metallic pen, not gold, cheaper than Gillott's 303s, which we have used constantly for a week, in Maynard & Noyes' black ink, and it still works well. If anybody has a pen to beat this please send along a gross. Ours was obtained at H. L. Davis's.

☞ A movement has been started in Illinois to erect a monument to the martyr, Rev. Elijah P. Lovejoy, who was killed in Alton, in that state, by a proslavery mob about twenty-five years ago. He was a brother of the late Hon. Owen Lovejoy, and was a native of this State.

☞ The Advertiser makes a fling at the "American Telegraph Company" for making the abstract of the Message so meagre. Is that honorable, knowing, as it does, that the Telegraph Company had no more to do with that abstract than the wires over which it was transmitted?

☞ "Brevity is the soul of wit." In writing telegraphic despatches it is true economy. A recent despatch coins a word to save circumlocution; or rather, it forces several words into one, to save expense. Thus: "A large Government stable, at Fort Hamilton, was incendiaried last night." This is right. It is the province of lightning to make short cuts.

☞ Dr. N. T. True of Bethel, writes to the Maine Farmer that he has seen on the farm of J. Metcalf of Monmouth, an upland bed of cranberries. He chose a cold barren-looking spot in his field; set out the cranberries, and let them take care of themselves. They have nearly crowded out the native grasses; and last year he gathered about 20 bushels of cranberries. This year the crop was injured by the drouth.

☞ The Boston Courier, referring to the Government stamp tax, says, "They would, if they could, stick a stamp on our soul." No danger of that, for Satan has stuck his stamp there so indelibly that no political chemistry can efface it; spiritual chemistry may do it, but there is some doubt even of this, for the Courier is now chiefly read for the purpose of deepening conviction in the doctrine of total depravity.

☞ The organ of Jeff. Davis in this city meanly insinuated that the proprietors of the Press interfered with the line, to prevent the transmission of the Message by the Independent Telegraph for its columns. We respectfully called upon it to be more distinct in its statement, so that we might know precisely its meaning. But instead of doing this the vile thing only adds to its meanness by additional obscure hints. This is the style of the presiding genius of that sheet; vaguely to intimate offenses which, if true, should consign his neighbors to the penitentiary. We don't know as this is to be wondered at, since it has become a truism that "misery loves company." Having rather unpleasant visions of that state institution looming up before his own mind—visions more likely than otherwise to be speedily realized, if justice meets with no obstructions—it is natural that he should clutch at anything to break his fall from the chair editorial to a cell.

Prohibition of Slavery.

The New York Herald takes strong ground in favor of a constitutional amendment abolishing slavery. Here is what it said a short time since, which is more sensible than some of the political suggestions of that journal:

"The Democratic party has been totally demolished because it would not follow the advice we gave it in 1862. The few Democrats who have escaped the wreck and are safe in the next Congress, will do well to take a sensible hint, and vote for the amendment to the Constitution abolishing slavery. We have had trouble enough about slavery, and the Democrats have been beaten often enough in their attempts to uphold this doomed institution. Now let us all unite to get it out of the way, and to clear the field for new issues in 1868. If the Democrats in Congress persist in fighting the pro-slavery battle over again they can only expect another defeat. It will be better for them and the party to acquiesce cheerfully in what is inevitable."

THE BORDER BURGLARS AND PIRATES.—We believe we are correct in stating that the visit of Attorney General Cartier, of Lower Canada, to Washington, led to a satisfactory understanding between the Government and the Provincial authorities in regard both to the mode of dealing with the rebel raiders now in custody, and to the best means of preventing thieving incursions by land or water with the Border States in future.

Mr. Cartier has been in friendly consultation here with Maj. Gen. Dix, and before his return to Quebec there is no doubt that a common course of action will be agreed upon, which will give ample assurance for the assertion of the public authority hereafter on both sides of the line—whether the raiders take the character of "belligerents" or common thieves.—[N. THE AUTUMN HOLIDAYS OF A COUNTRY PARSON. 1 vol. 16mo, pp. 352. Boston: Ticknor & Fields, 1865.

If the genial "country parson" seldom rises far above a certain even flow of pleasant talk, he, at least, never falls below it. Not severely belabored, or profoundly suggestive, his books have, perhaps for that very reason, an immense popularity, and we cannot be so ungrateful as to complain of toujours perdrix in rising from so relishful a dish as he sets before us. The present volume contains fifteen or twenty essays the titles of which "Concerning Ugly Ducks," "Concerning Needless Fears," "Concerning the Sudden Sweetening of Certain Grapes," &c., will at once suggest their character to all familiar with the author. The volume is tastefully bound in a style uniform with the previous number of this series.

CLEVER STORIES OF MANY NATIONS, rendered in rhyme by John G. Saxe. Illustrated by W. L. Champney. 1 vol. Small quarto. Boston: Ticknor & Fields, 1865.

One of the most unique and tasteful of the many books of the season. It contains twenty poems in Saxe's usual vein of whimsical drollery, none of which are comprised in any hitherto published edition of the author's works. Each poem is illustrated in quaint and beautiful style. The book is finely printed by the University press on toned paper, bound in bevelled boards and richly gilt. A charming volume for the holidays.

GOD'S WAY OF HOLINESS: By Horatius Bonar, D. D., author of "God's Way of Peace," "Hymns of Faith and Hope," etc. 16mo, pp. 200. New York: Robert Carter & Bros., 1865.

A collection of sermons, or rather of essays upon a special topic, intended to probe the conscience, quicken the religious convictions and incite to holiness of life. The volume is beautifully got up, the paper, type and binding all being in the most perfect taste. A choice book for a gift to a friend.

LIBRARY OF TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE.

D. Appleton & Co., New York, have conferred a signal favor upon the youthful readers of the country by contributing to our juvenile literature three beautiful volumes, uniform in size and style, with neatly colored engravings, entitled as follows:

Fast in the Ice,
Fighting the Whales,
Away in the Wilderness.

This series of volumes is intended to convey to the youthful reader much valuable information, clothed in the attractive form of tales. Each volume is complete and distinct in itself; but together they contain a fulness and variety of interesting knowledge not to be found elsewhere in the same compass. They should be in every Sabbath School Library.

UNCLE JOHN'S LIBRARY.

Besides the set of beautiful books noticed above, Messrs. D. Appleton & Co. have made a further contribution to the juvenile wants of the community in the shape of six beautifully illustrated volumes — uniform in size and style—entitled—

Uncle John's First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Book.

These are emphatically books for children, the phraseology adapted to their capacities, avoiding words and expressions uncommon to their ears and above their comprehension. The subjects are natural; the stories short, and composed of words of two or more syllables according to the supposed advancement of the child. "Uncle John," who will find himself possessed of little nephews and nieces whose name is legion, trusting that his little volumes may prove a valuable aid to the young, respectfully submits them to the public, which public he has laid under lasting obligations.

HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR!

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Difficult Breathing, and all Affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes and Lungs, leading to Consumption.

This sovereign remedy is compounded from the favorite recipe of an illustrious Physician and Chemist, who for many years used it with the most complete success in his extensive private practice.

He has long been profoundly impressed with the wonderful virtue of honey of the plant Horehound, in union with the Cleansing and Healing properties of tar extracted from the Life Principle of the forest tree Abies Balsamea or Balm of Gilead. For years he was baffled in his attempts to blend these great medicinal forces into such a union that the original power of each would be preserved, the disagreeable qualities of common tar removed, and the price of the compound be within the means of all. At last, after a long course of difficult chemical experiments he found that by adding to those five other ingredients, each one valuable by itself, he not only obtained the desired results, but greatly increased the curative power of the compound. This having been thoroughly tested by practice, is now offered to the general public as a safe, pleasant and infallible remedy.

DR. TEBBETTS' PHYSIOLOGICAL HAIR REGENERATOR!

ITS MODUS OPERANDI:

Immediately beneath the scalp there are very small bodies called Glands; or more commonly Roots of the Hair. It is from these Glands that every hair of the head is formed and secreted. As long as the scalp is free from disease these bodies also remain healthy, and the hair keeps its natural appearance and color. But when humors and other diseases affect the scalp these glands become involved in the same disease, and the hair gradually turns gray, dry and brittle. Sooner or later the hair begins to fall off, and in many cases, if not arrested, will produce complete baldness.

To remedy this pathological condition of the glands, and create a new and healthy action, the Physiological Hair Regenerator has proved a perfect success.

It is not a "Dye," and will not stain a particle. It will positively "RESTORE GRAY HAIR" in all cases to its original color. It promotes a growth of new hair in all cases on Bald Heads when the glands or roots of the hair are not completely disorganized.—It prevents the hair from falling off, and removes all dandruff, heat, humors and itching from the scalp. It keeps the hair soft, moist and pliable, prevents healthy and gives it a glossy and beautiful appearance. It is highly perfumed, and as a dressing it has no superior. The "Regenerator" is warranted to produce the above results in all cases, if not the money to be refunded. With it every "Gray Head" in New England can be restored in less than thirty days.

Price 75 cents per Bottle.

Statue of Gen. Berry.

We learn that the model of the colossal statue of Maj. Gen. Berry, upon which Simmon's has been engaged during the summer, has just been completed, and that the cast in plaster will be on FREE exhibition during the week, at the Senate Chamber, New City Building. A brief opportunity is thus afforded the citizens of Portland to see the first portrait statue ever executed in Maine, and also the first yet modeled of a general who has fallen in the war of the rebellion. Would it not be to the credit of the State, if from so fine a beginning, should date a new era, in which the culture of the fine arts, should be regarded as one of the duties of the government and the people!

When chiseled in marble, it is designed, as is already known, to stand in the city of Rockland, as an adequate memorial of the heroic life and character of the fallen general, and a worthy tribute to his memory. He is represented in the statue as standing in the field, in an attitude of repose, with right foot advanced, his body resting upon the left. His right-hand holding a spy-glass, rests upon a stump, over which his mantle has carelessly fallen, while his left arm is thrown naturally behind him. There is a calm intensity in his whole presence, and a high and serene look of command pervades his massive features as he gazes into the distance.

The friends and family of Gen. Berry can appreciate the marvelous success of the artist in the reproduction of his form and features; and this achievement, ample in itself, is yet more striking, if we consider that he had never seen the man whose figure he was to fashion in the clay, and was guided in his work solely by photographs of his face.

They, who may be less interested in it as a likeness of the dead, cannot fail to be attracted by its rare merit as a work of art. In the variety and harmony of the lines, in the delicacy and breadth of handling, and in the unity and simplicity of the design, are seen traces of unusual power.

If the studio of a young man, whose career as an artist has scarcely yet begun, can in a few months produce an heroic statue like this, the promise of the future must be strangely unfulfilled, if the triumphs and rewards of mature life, are not of the most brilliant.

"FOREFATHER'S DAY."—The ladies of the Christian Commission propose two things; to have a pleasant celebration of the above mentioned day, and also to draw from the patriotic some needed funds.

The Childrens' Concert which excited the enthusiasm of the public on the fourth of July last is to be repeated. This, in itself, is a card which will draw. But in addition an Antiquarian Supper will be provided, which will be served by young ladies in "ye costume of ancient Plymouth." The ladies would appeal to our patriotic young men and boys to furnish for them evergreen wreaths, mottoes, emblems, &c., to be on sale for the coming holidays.

We trust the public will be prepared to give the ladies a good lift at this time, as money is very much needed by this Association.

SNOW STORM.—A snow storm from the northeast set in about 8 o'clock Saturday morning and continued throughout the day.—In the afternoon the wind blew a gale. Yesterday it snowed slightly at intervals during the day, and towards evening there was some rain. Snow enough fell to make good sleighing if it had not drifted, but as it is, a portion of our streets are bare of it.

Steamer Montreal, which was ready to go to Boston Saturday night, lays over until to night, as does the Lewiston in Boston.

The trains from the West were delayed by the snow. The train from Boston over the upper route did not arrive Saturday night until nine o'clock, and that on the lower route until near eleven o'clock.

MRS. J. W. EMERY, has laid upon our table a small marble block beautifully ornamented with the pictures of roses, butterflies, &c.—She understands the art of transposing pictures in oil colors upon China, glass, marble or wood. Instruction is free. She has for sale pictures and materials. Vases, tea setts, &c., done to order. The process is quite interesting, and the paintings thus tranferred are delicate and beautiful. Mrs. Emery may be found at the corner of Spring and Winter streets.

THERE will be a "Demonstration" at New City Hall this evening, at which addresses will be made by Dr. W. W. Brown of Boston, and William A. Jackson, ex-coachman to Jeff. Davis. Mrs. S. S. Jackson will recite a poem, This lady is of Indian descent, and has sons fighting in our army. There will, also, be singing by F. W. Jackson's Quartette, their first appearance in this city. The admission fee is only 15 cents.

SAILING OF THE STEAMER.—Steamship Moravian, Capt. Alton, sailed from this port Saturday evening, for Liverpool. She had 38 passengers and a full cargo.

The steamer St. David, from Liverpool had not arrived at a late hour last night. She is over due at this port. The Hibernian is the one due this week.

COASTWISE PACKETS.—The subscriptions to the stock of the Eastern Packet Co., for the establishment of lines of sailing vessels between this port and Eastern ports, are coming in rapidly, and there is no doubt of the success of the measure. It is one that interests itself to every merchant in Portland.

YOU MEN WHO ARE IN WANT OF substitutes, or Towns agents wishing to fill your town quotas! John M. Todd, at No. 74 Middle street, corner of Exchange street, who has done business in this city for twenty years, will furnish men on as reasonable terms as any one in the State. Call and see him.

THE firing off Cape Elizabeth, heard Saturday, proceeded from the steam cutter Mahoning. The weather was so thick that nothing could be seen a short distance from the vessel. Hence she fired her guns as signals.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Reconnissance to Hatcher's Run.

CAPTURE OF A LINE OF REBEL BREASTWORKS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY POTOMAC, December 9.

Another reconnissance was made this morning along the Vaughan road toward Hatcher's Run, over the same route the cavalry went yesterday. The force consisted of detachments of several regiments of cavalry under Col. Kirum of the 13th Pennsylvania, and the 3d brigade, 1st division of the 2d corps. The videttes of the enemy were driven across the run, when a sharp fire was opened on our advance from a line of breastworks on the opposite side. After some skirmishing to discover the strength of the enemy, a charge was made across the run, and the works carried by assault, but not until the rebels had made good their retreat up the south side. Our men took possession of the captured entrenchments, while skirmishers were thrown out on both flanks. Soon after a report came that the enemy were moving up and across the run, half a mile west of the road where our troops were, and evincing an intention to attack our right flank. Gen. Miles at once disposed his command to receive them. He also sent back for reinforcements, which were given him at once; but the enemy did not make their appearance during the afternoon, and it was believed they fell back to a stronger position at Armstrong's Mills, a mile and a half to the west.

The impression is that they had no large force in the vicinity, otherwise a more stubborn resistance to our advance, would have been made

Our loss in the charge was seventeen men wounded. The loss of the enemy not known. If they had any wounded, they carried them off, for none fell into our hands.

GEN. SHERMAN'S CAMPAIGN.

Our Army Moving on Savannah—Movements of Gen. Foster—Gen. Brown's Flight from Milledgeville—Battle Imminent Before Richmond—Reported Sinking of a Federal Gunboat—Doings of Southern Legislatures.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.

The Augusta Chronicle of the 4th, says the fact that Sherman's army has reached Millen, settled the question that his direction is towards Savannah; his route however, is yet to be determined. He may move his whole army direct on Savannah, by the old road from Augusta; or he may move across Scriven county and Beaufort district, in crossing the Savannah river, so as to form a junction with Foster at Grahamsville.

Foster's advance, together with the sending up of signals, indicated that he expected to meet Sherman, but the latter failed to come to time. The point to be gained by the capture of Grahamsville, was to cut off reinforcements from Augusta to Savannah. This would place Savannah at his mercy, as he would use Port Royal for a base, and then proceed to the ultimate object of his campaign, the capture of Savannah, or perhaps of Charleston. He would hardly risk a battle at Savannah, with only the supplies he has on hand. He will first secure a base, and that will be Grahamsville or Port Royal. In view of these considerations, no matter what feints he may make, he will aim to reach the point where Foster is now waiting for him.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 8th, says the last accounts represented Sherman at Millen, from that point he has three harbors at about an equal distance viz: Beaufort Savannah and Darien. It was believed he would yet endeavor to reach Foster at Grahamsville, and failing in that, try to capture Savannah.

The Savannah Republican says, when Gov. Brown fled from Milledgeville, he took all his own property of every description, even cabbages, but was not so diligent in looking after the state property. All the powder of the state he left behind; also 3000 stand of arms, all of which fell into the enemy's hands.

Richmond papers of Thursday say Grant has been reinforced by from 6000 to 10,000 men from the Shenandoah Valley, and a battle is imminent.

The Dutch Gap Canal, they say, can be made ready for use in a few hours.

They have a report that a force of our troops has effected a lodgment between the two important points of Fort Darling and Howlett's House.

It is claimed that one of our gunboats was sunk on Monday by an iron bolt from one of the Howlett House guns.

In the North Carolina Legislature resolutions had been introduced favoring the sending of commissioners to Washington to negotiate for peace.

Resolutions had been introduced into the South Carolina Legislature depreciating peace negotiations until the dissolution of the Union is conceded. Gov. Bonham, in his message to the South Carolina Legislature, opposes peace without independence.

The Richmond Despatch is bitter on the Southerners in New York and at the North, and says that if the Confederacy triumphs they cannot expect to return to the South.

In the rebel Senate on the 30th, Mr. Orr submitted a report denouncing the capture of the pirate Florida.

In the rebel House Mr. Foot had offered a resolution that Congress has no authority to interfere on the subject of emancipation as recommended by Davis. Also a resolution against separate States negotiating for peace but favoring a convention for the purpose of securing peace through a more vigorous prosecution of the war.

FROM TENNESSEE.

Federal Loss in the Battle of Franklin—Shelling of Cheatham's Headquarters—Deserters—Gen. Cooper's Brigade—The Weather at Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 10.

The federal loss in the battle at Franklin, as ascertained by official report is greater than at first supposed. It amounts to 110 officers and 2087 men killed, wounded, and missing, are in the hospitals.

The loss to the residents living near the lines of the two armies, is estimated at over $500,000. Cheatham, whose headquarters were at the residence of A. V. Brown, was shelled out from there yesterday by our artillery. The residence was completely destroyed.

On Sunday last, a small party of rebels succeeded in crossing the Cumberland river, this side of the shoals. They were captured and brought in yesterday. They claim that the whole party deserted from the rebels, and were making their way to their homes. Another prisoner was captured yesterday, and four deserters came into our lines to day. The latter report that Hood is about to make a movement of some sort.

Gen. Cooper's brigade in its march from Johnsonville to Clarksville, was greatly annoyed by guerrillas. Sixteen men of the 13th Indiana were captured, thirteen killed, and three wounded. One of the latter was left for dead, and escaped and reported the above facts.

The weather here is very cold, and about two inches of snow fell yesterday and last night. The river is five feet deep on the shoals, and rising.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 11.

The situation is unchanged. In front of the 4th corps not a shot had been fired up to two o'clock this afternoon. Since that hour some slight skirmishing has occurred. Owing to the slippery state of the ground our men find it impossible to move about. The rebels are plainly seen in front of the 4th corps standing about their camp fires. Hostilities may have ceased on account of the bad weather.

Deserters say the rebels have strong entrenchments with two rows of chevreaux de frieses, with wires stretched around to strengthen them.

Col. Johnson, commander of the 44th colored infantry, has received from the commanding General the highest praise for the manner in which he fought at Mill Creek Station No. 2, having gallantly kept the enemy at bay for sixteen hours. He finally fought his way out, and reached Nashville with the loss of 150 men in killed and wounded.

Exchange of Prisoners—Probable Attack on Savannah.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.

Annapolis, Dec. 10.—The steamer Victor has just arrived from Charleston, where all of Col. Mulford's fleet is now lying; the exchange of prisoners being changed from Savannah to Charleston. Gen'ls. Sherman and Foster having interrupted the exchange at the former city.

When the Victor sailed on Wednesday last, heavy firing was heard in the direction of Savannah; being either an attack on that city, or on the railroad between Charleston and Savannah.

FOUR DAYS

LATER FROM EUROPE.

Arrival of the Canada at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 11.

Steamship Canada from Liverpool 26th, and Queenstown 27th, for Boston, arrived here at 6 o'clock this evening.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Daily News in an editorial on the proposed arming of slaves in the South, doubts if it will be done, but is satisfied with the mere proposal as an earnest of the approaching end, both of the war, and of the sin and curse which generated it.

It is stated that as the Florida on her seizure at Bahia, was taken entirely by surprise everything on board of her was taken by the captors. Among her papers was much important information, which it is said may implicate some foreign officials of high rank, in active sympathy and aid in favor of the rebels.

The Daily News publishes a letter from Prof. Goldwin Smith, dated Boston Nov. 9th, on the Presidential election. He extols the tranquility with which the contest was conducted. He looked in vain for evidences of tyranny of majority. He could scarcely conceive a nation in the midst of a great political struggle more temperate, orderly, or respectful of each others rights. He regards the defeat of the democrats as a great escape from danger, for both America and England, as the democrats would have adopted a strong foreign policy, particularly against England, to balance concessions that they would have made to the slaveholders.

An importation of fresh grown grapes from New York, is noted as an experiment in London.

Mr. Spooner, for many years the well known Protestant leader in the House of Commons, is dead.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin had been giving a banquet to the new Lord Lieutenant, who in a speech, bore testimony to the undoubted recovery and progress of Ireland.

Gales continued frequent and disastrous round the English coast. Wrecks were numerous, accompanied by loss of life. Two coasting steamers were wrecked, and a large number of the passengers and crew drowned.

The following is part of the St. David's dispatch, that left Liverpool on the afternoon of the 24th ult.:

Cobden addressed a great meeting of his constituents at Rochdale on the 23d. Bright was also to have been present, but was prevented by domestic affliction. Cobden spoke at great length, his theme being non-intervention in either European or American affairs. He adverted to the war in America, and asked why the South, as in other cases of rebellion, had not put forth a list of its grievances. The reason, he thought, was they had but one.—They wanted to consolidate, perpetuate and extend slavery. Instead of stating their grievances they simply asked to be let alone, and it is this cry that has secured so much European sympathy for the insurrection. He regarded the peaceable Presidential election as one of the most sublime spectacles in the whole history of the world, and said a people that could do that had given to the world a spectacle such as never was presented before by any other people. They had resolved, notwithstanding their great sacrifices, that slavery should be abolished. He reiterated his belief, and with greater emphasis than before, that he did not believe he should live to see two independent States on the continent of North America. He considered the geographical difficulties in the way of separation to be absolutely insuperable.

He took leave of the American subject by depreciating the ignorance which prevailed in England in regard to the geographic resources, &c., of the country, and by declaring that he wanted nothing done to carry out his opinions, but was simply desirous, by his observations, to turn the scales to prevent undue preponderance in favor of either side.

The London Index publishes the copy of a note dated Nov. 11th signed by Slidell, Mason and Mann, and addressed to Drouyn de l'Huys, formally presenting to the French Government the manifesto adopted by the rebel Congress at the last session. The commissioners invite attention to this manifesto, the terms of which they briefly recapitulate, and add that since it was issued the war has continued to be waged by the North with even increased ferocity, a more signal disregard of all rules of civilized warefare and more wanton violation of the obligations of international law. The identical notes were presented to all the Cabinets of Europe, Constantinople excepted.

THE LATE STORM.

The Schooner Lion with all on board—Schooner Mentilid, Alciope, Grecian and Watchman Ashore.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 11.

The schooner Splendid, ot and from Portland for New York, loaded with shooks, went ashore on the upper end of Plum Island yesterday in the thick snow storm, while attempting to make our harbor. The vessel is uninjured and the crew were on board at the latest accounts.

BOSTON, Dec. 11.

During the thick snow storm of Saturday the schooner Lion went ashore on Nahant beach. She struck at about four o'clock in the afternoon, and before assistance could be rendered the vessel went to pieces, and all on board perished. The life boat from Swampscott made several attempts to go to the aid of the schooner, but could not reach her owing to the violence of the storm. From papers found she is supposed to be a Maine vessel with a cargo of plaster. The crew numbered five or six persons. The schooner Lion, Capt. Furbish, sailed from Rockland Dec. 2d, for New Bedford, and is doubtless the vessel lost.

The schooner Alciope, Capt. Collamore, from Bangor for Dorchester, Mass., with lumber, also went ashore on Winthrop beach.—The sea makes a complete breach over her.—All hands were taken off by a life boat from Deer Island in an exhausted condition.

The schooner Grecian, Capt. Crabtree, from Franklin, Me., for Boston, with lumber, is high and dry on the Spit in Boston harbor.—All hands safe.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.

The schooner Watchman, from Calais, with leather, went ashore in the snow storm yesterday, on Hood's Island and bilged, and will have to discharge her cargo before getting off.

Munitions of War Sent to Gen. Sherman—Arrest of Physicians—Regulations of Passports.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

It is confidently believed that Sherman has reached the sea coast.

The steamship Merrimac sailed yesterday morning with a full cargo of provisions, infantry and field artillery, ammunition and large numbers of small arms to be delivered to Sherman. As some of the crew of the Merrimac were hired for only a fortnight's service, it is thought here that the voyage out will terminate this side of Savannah.

Twelve physicians were arrested in Brooklyn to-day for the violation of the health ordinance.

The secessionists here were quite astonished to-day on applying for passports to Nassua, Jamaica and Havana, to find regulations again in force requiring an endorsement of passports before they could be allowed to leave the country.

Rebel Cotton vs. Rebel Blankets.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.

The rebel Gen. Beal, who has been released from Fort Warren on parole to act in conjunction with the Union Gen. Payne in the exchange of 1000 bales of cotton from the South for 30,000 blankets for rebel prisoners, has arrived in this city and reported to Gen. Dix.

SHERMAN'S CAMPAIGN.

Comments of Richmond Papers on Sherman's Movements—Georgia Railroads to be Repaired—Our Army Reported Moving Down the Ogeechee—Federal Prisoners Shot—The Army Reported Marching Directly for Savannah.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

Our full files of Richmond papers up to yesterday morning, including the Richmond Whig of Dec. 8, arrived late to night, owing to detention of the mail boat by the storm. The silence of most of them on Georgia matters is probably the most significant fact connected with them.

The Whig of Thurday evening, the 8th, says "up to a late hour last night no official dispatches had reached the War Department from Georgia. We are confident that we shall yet announce the thorough discomfiture of Sherman." The Whig says, editorally, "If Sherman gets through to the sea coast it certainly will be a great humiliation to the Confederacy, but it will not be more than a humiliation."

The Sentinel of the 8th has nothing in its news columns, but says editorially, "the information from Georgia indicates very little progress from Sherman. He seems to be comparatively quiet somewhere near the banks of the Ogeechee River, while his cavalry is sent out to explore an exit. Whether Darien, Beaufort or Savannah is his object is still in doubt. We think Beaufort after Savannah is Sherman's choice. If that proves impracticable he will attempt Darien or Brunswick.

The Daily Despatch of Thursday, the 8th, says: "We had no news from Sherman yesterday. At last accounts he was believed to be moving for the coast, and our troops were concentrating to obstruct his route.

We are glad to see from Augusta papers that the Railroad Companies in Georgia are going to work to repair their railroads.

Under the head of "Very latest" the Despatch adds to the above account as follows:—"Latest accounts received last night state that Sherman is moving his two columns down the Ogeechee River, one column on either side."

The Augusta Constitutionalist of Sunday last, says the latest accounts represent Sherman's main body as vigorously passing through Millen.

The Sentinel of the same date says that Sherman is below Millen with the main body of his army.

The Augusta Sentinel, of the 24th, says Yankee stragglers are picked up. Where they have committed no improper act they are treated as prisoner of war, but where it is ascertained that they have committed any indecencies they are shot. Four have been shot near Eatontown.

The Savannah News of Saturday last says: "Sherman moves slowly; what he meditates by delay we cannot say."

The Augusta Sentinel adds to this as follows: "As Sherman's advance has reached Millen it settles the question that he is making direct for Savannah."

FROM WASHINGTON.

Southern News — Merchants vs. Blockade Runners—Sale of Lord Lyons' Horses, Carriages, &c.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

The government has received no information other than what appears in southern papers in relation to Gen. Sherman's movement.

Five or six merchants of Washington, are charged with selling goods to blockade runners, who were at large on parole. They have been recommitted to the old capitol prison by order of the Secretary of War.

The horses, carriages, wines, &c., of Lord Lyons were sold at auction to-day. This indicates that Lord Lyons will not soon return to this country, if at all.

Commodore Craven writes from on board the U. S. ship Niagara, under date of Antwerp, Nov. 22d, a joyful letter over the re election of Mr. Lincoln, saying that it is the greatest and most important contest of the war.

The Military Commission took up the case of selling goods to blockade runners. Pardon Woosley is the principal witness for the government.

Southern Political Items—Reported Reinforcement of Gens. Grant and Thomas.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

Nothing of importance took place in the rebel Congress on Wednesday.

The Virginia Legislature met on that day, but adjourned for the want of a quorum.

The Richmond Examiner of the 8th has a paragraph pretending to give details of Gen. Grant's reinforcements. The dispatch of the 8th says Grant is moving troops, but as he does it in a dense fog they don't know what it means.

Richmond papers of the 8th all contain an official dispatch stating that the Yankee Gen. Steele with 15,000 men had landed at Memphis on the 26th and went up the river to reinforce Thomas.

Destruction of Blockade Runners.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.

Admiral Porter communicates to the Navy Department information of the burning and destruction of the blockade runner Ella, off Wilmington, by an expedition from the U. S. steamer Emma. She was loaded with arms and ammunition and bound to Wilmington.—She was run ashore under the guns of the batteries on the 3d inst., and subsequently destroyed.

The expedition was composed of six men, under charge of acting Ensign Sampson, assisted by acting 3d assistant Engineer Churchill. Much praise is accorded to them for the creditable manner in which they performed their work.

Reported Capture of the Southside Railroad.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.

There is a report in town to-night that Gen. Grant has captured the Southside Railroad, thus compelling the evacuation of Petersburg. The report is generally credited, and has created intense excitement at the gold board this evening.

Gold closed at the stock exchange this evening at 2 34.

MISCELLANY.

A Conscript's Epistle to Jeff. Davis.

The following quaint epistle has been furnished for publication by a member of the Mounted Rifles, who picked it up in a deserted rebel camp on the Chowan river, about thirty miles from Winton, while out on a scouting expedition last spring. The letter was addressed in this wise:

"Read, if you want to, you thieving scalp-hunter, whoever you are, and forward, postpaid, to the lord high chancellor of the devil's exchequer (?) on earth.

HEADQUARTER "SCALP HUNTERS,"
CAMP CHOWAN, N. C., Jan. 11.

Excellency Davis:

It is with feelings of undeveloped pleasure that an affectionate conscript entrusts this sheet of confiscated paper to the tender mercies of a Confederate States mail-carrier, addressed, as it shall be, to yourself, O Jeff., Red Jacket of the Gulf and Chief of the Six Nations—more or less. He writes on the trunk of a shivered monarch of the forest, with the 'pine trees wailing round him,' and 'Eudymion's planet rising in the air.' To you, O Czar of all Chivalry, Khan of Cotton Tartary, he appeals for the privilege of seeking, on his own hook, a land less free, a home among the hyenas of the North. Will you not half your 'brave columns' and stay your gorgeous career for a thin space? and while an admiring world takes a brief gaze at your glorious and God forsaken cause, pen for the happy conscript a furlough without end? Do so, and mail it, if you please, to that city the windy, wandering Wigfall didn't winter in, called, for short, Philadelphia.

The Elesian winds sweeping down the defiles of the Old Dominion and over the swamps of Suffolk, come moaning through the pines of the Old State laden with music, and sign themselves away into sweet sounds of silence to the far off South. Your happy conscript would go to the far away North whence the wind comes, and leave you to reap the whirlwind, with no one but your father, the Devil, to rake and bind after you. And he is going.

It is with intense and multifariously proud satisfaction that he gazes for the last time upon our hoisy flag—that symbol and sign of an adored trinity—cotton, niggers and chivalry. He still sees it in the camp on the Chowan, tied to the peak of its palmetto pole, and floating out over our boundless Confederacy, the revived relic of ages gone, banner of our king of few days and full of trouble. And that pole in its tapering uprightness testifies to some of the grandest beauties of our national; its peak pointing hopefully towards the tropical stars, and its biggest end—run into the ground. Relic and pole, good bye. 'Tis best the conscript goes; his claim to chivalry has gone before him. Behind he leaves the legitimate chivalry of this unbounded natural centred in the illegitimate son of a Kentucky horse-thief.

But a few more words, illustrious President, and he is done—done gone.

Elevated by their sufferings and suffrages to the highest office in the gift of a great and exceeding free people, you have held your position without a change of base, or purpose of any sort, through weary months of war, and want and woe; and though every conscript would unite with the thousands of loyal and true men in the South in a grand old grief at your downfall, so, too, will they sink under the calamity of an exquisite joy when you shall have reached that eminent meridian whence all progress is perpendicular.

And now, bastard President of a political abortion, farewell.

'Scalp-hunters,' relic, pole and chivalrous Confederates in crime, good bye. Except it be in the army of the Union, you will not again see the conscript

Hall's Vegetable
SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER,
The best Preparation for the Hair.

IT will immediately free the head from dandruff, restore the hair to its natural color, and produce a new growth where it has fallen off. It will stop the falling out of the hair, in a few days, if faithfully applied, and it will turn GRAY HAIR to its original color.

It is not like other preparations, making the hair dry and brittle, but it will make it soft, moist, and glossy. Sold by all the Apothecaries and Medicine Dealers in this city and State

MEDICAL.

CATARRH!
DR. R. GOODALE'S
CATARRH REMEDY,
AND MODE OF TREATMENT IS

The Acme of Perfection!

It Cures Hay, Rose, and Periodic Catarrh
It Cures Catarrh in all its types and stages
It Cures Catarrh and averts consumption.

No Violent Syringing of the Head!

THE SENSE OF TASTE AND SMELL RESTORED.

FOR centuries Catarrh has defied the skill of physicians and surgeons. No medical work contains a prescription that will eradicate it. Nothing save Dr. Goodale's Remedy will break it up, radically destroying the principle of the disease, and precluding the possibility of relapse.

No form of Catarrh can withstand its searching power and no mode of treatment ever afforded such immediate relief, or gave such universal satisfaction.

It penetrates to the very seat of this terrible disease and exterminates it, root and branch, forever.

[From the Commercial Advertiser, New York.]

Hay, Rose, and Periodic Catarrh.—Dr. R. Goodale's Catarrh Remedy, and mode of treatment, not only affords the greatest relief in every variety of Catarrh, but it extinguishes the disease forever, in all its types and stages. Every one speaks well of it.

[From John L. Beebee, New London, Ct.]

Messrs. Norton & Co.

Gentlemen—The bottle of Goodale's Catarrh Remedy you sent me has cured me of the Catarrh of ten years standing. I gave a few doses of it to three of my neighbors, and they say it has cured them. I have now half a bottle left and would not take a thousand dollars for it if I could not procure more. Dr Goodale has surely discovered the true cause of Catarrh, and an unfailing remedy to cure it.

Yours truly, JOHN L. BEEBE.
